<sup>1</sup> It was recently discovered that Donald E. Haviland, Jr., a then associate at Kline & Specter, submitted a request for "reimbursement" of $406.58 for food and lodging on August 23, 2004 to the firm's accounting department and was paid that amount. Those costs were never paid by Mr. Haviland. Instead, they were paid by the firm through Mr. Haviland's use of the firm's American Express card.
